

MLP welcomes its 800,000th private client

- Number of private clients increased by around 60 percent in the past ten years

Wiesloch, 19th June 2012 – Stephan Schweig, an engineer from Duisburg, recently became MLP's 800,000th private client and was officially welcomed at the company's branch office in Duisburg.

Since its formation in 1971, MLP, the independent financial services and wealth management consulting company has consistently expanded its client base – which has increased by around 60 percent in the past ten years. “We are very pleased with this display of trust by our 800,000 clients,” comments Muhyddin Suleiman, member of the Executive Board for Sales. “The continual rise in the number of clients offers clear confirmation of the success of our business model.”

MLP provides academics with independent and holistic advice in the fields of provision, wealth management, healthcare, insurance, loans and banking. Building on its successful business model, MLP has significantly expanded its consulting activities towards companies and employers as well as institutional investors, pension funds, foundations and very wealthy private clients. The consulting is based on independent product and investment research. Today, MLP is a broad-based consulting house with over EUR 20 billion of assets under management and provides advisory services to private clients as well as to more than 5,000 corporate clients and employers.
